

WCPT COVID-19 – Information and Resources

Dear colleagues

I hope you and those you care about are OK.

Our profession is made up of kind, compassionate, and empathic people, and I know many of you are dealing the impact and effect of COVID-19. This is a challenging time for everyone, including our global physiotherapy profession.

I want you to know that WCPT will do everything it can to support our member organisations, and their individual members.

Some of our larger member organisations have been able to produce information and resources about coronavirus (COVID-19). We know each country and territory will have its own response to coronavirus (COVID-19), which will be influenced by the progression of the disease and the local healthcare infrastructures. What works in one location may not be appropriate or relevant elsewhere.

To assist our member organisations, we have collated the information and resources that may be of use and could be adapted to suit your situation. You can find this information and resources on this webpage:

<https://www.wcpt.org/news/Novel-Coronavirus-2019-nCoV>

If you would like WCPT to share information and resources your association has produced, please send this to communications@wcpt.org and we will update the webpage.

I know physiotherapists in private practice in Spain are dealing with specific ethical challenges around the right to practice at this time. If WCPT can help your association with advocacy support, please contact our chief executive officer Jonathon Kruger on jkruger@wcpt.org

Every month we send out news and information about the global physiotherapy profession in our E-Update. Coronavirus (COVID-19) will be the focus for this month's issue, which will be sent out later this week. If you are not already on the mailing list to receive the E-Update, please sign up here: <https://mailchi.mp/wcpt.org/subscribe>

The situation is changing on a daily basis – hourly for people in some countries and territories. This pandemic has touched, and will touch, the lives of many of us and the people we each care about.

We will all need to be resilient and pace ourselves through each day.

Take care.
